About the Session:

This session series/cohort will use Catlin's book - Power Up Blended Learning: A Professional Learning Infrastructure to Support Sustainable Change as its foundational resource.

As school-based leaders move forward in the development of a 'Brave not Perfect' mindset, this series with Catlin will provide them with understanding and strategies to support a Blended Learning approach to leading learning in classrooms and schools. Participants will begin with a foundational understanding of what 'Blended Learning' really means, and from there, how to action this out as an educational leader. This will be delivered through the lens' of coaching and supporting teachers and how supervision could look under this new/different model. As well, we will be focusing on assessment and inclusive classrooms where the needs of all students are being supported and met.

This learning opportunity is being offered through a grant from Alberta Education.
